

TONI and MARCONI

PRESENTATION

30 min comedy for television

LOGLINE – It's a Hell of fun

What was once a mortal sin, is today a daily habit. Is it the same in the afterlife?

Two priests, TONI and MARCONI die and instead of going to heaven god sends them to hell. Convinced that a mistake has been made, they bring their case forward to Lou-C-Fur who tells them that he will grant them an audience with god, if they can find one innocent soul in hell that deserves redemption.

In each episode, TONI and MARCONI must steal a soul they think is innocent from the devil that punishes it, and bring it forward to Lou so he can honour his side of the agreement.

Unfortunately, they will fail in their endeavours as every soul they bring will turn out to be in hell for good reasons, but not for the reasons Toni and Marconi believe.

Hell is also in dire financial jeopardy as Lou spent all the money in hell to buy Dan Blizzerian's soul, and he will use TONI and MARCONI to gain loans from the Purgatory Bank where the entire staff is formed of flying pigs. In order to obtain a business loan, one must first catch the flying pig he wishes to speak to, force him down on his chair, take his own seat in front of the pig, and begin proceedings. All in under 10 seconds or the pig transforms into a famous dead celebrity which will make matters worse.

The devils will have the names of daily frustrating things like TANGLED HEADPHONES, WEAK WIFI SIGNAL, ITUNES, LOOSE SHOE LACES, LOW BATTERY, BUFFER BAR, TRANSPARENT SKIP BUTTON, STUCK ZIPPER, PLEASANT ATTORNEY, COLD HAND LUKE PROCTOLOGIST NUKE, and so on.

The comedy of the show would be, Rick and Morty fights South Park over who gets to read from the bible, focusing on the fact that, you don't need someone to tell you how to treat a human being, and doing so, it actually makes it worse.

Or, Dante on acid guided by two retards in hell.

That along with humorous interpretations of the bible, including a scene where Adam's name was originally Ah! Damn! Which was what god (then a teenager) said when he accidentally brought his own turd to life. He killed the dinosaurs and dropped AhDamn along with Eve (initially called Ewe) on Earth, so his mom and dad won't find out.